HUMAN BRAIN CELLS.

THEY REFUSE TO WORK UNDER TOO HIGH A PRESSURE.

Put on Too Much Steam and These Minute Organisms Go on Strike. Why Men Go Crazy or Become Absentminded.

Keeping pace with scientific thought and progress certain problems which in the past have been shelved for want of light being thrown upon them have been taken up again one by one to undergo further examination by the aid of improved science.

The newest revelation in this direction tends to the science of the mind and includes the following problems: Why does a man act queerly when he is intoxicated?

Why is a man absentminded on occasions?

Why does a man sometimes become violently insane, often a dangerous, raving lunatic?

Such questions as these have puzzled our immediate fathers, who have hardly ever satisfactorily explained them away or indeed thrown much reliable light upon them. The human brain is composed of cells, and each cell is a simple bit of nerve substance, from one end of which, like an octopus, spring a number of tentacles, while from another part arises an arm different from them and of great length. The long arm is intended for transmitting impressions from one portion of the brain system to another, it being made to touch the tentacles or short arms of the next one to it, the latter in its turn effecting contact with a third cell, and so on.

Thus a message is conveyed and the mind gets its news. The entire brain is made up of these cells, whose number is legion and whose full strength is grouped in systems, these systems in turn being arranged in communities, the communities in clusters, and finally the clusters in constellations, by which divisions they are known to physiologists.

So long as the mind is in a healthy condition each little cell, or brain octopus, attends to its business faithfully and gives no trouble, but as man generally is an animal who usually refuses to live the life spanned out by nature and adopts instead the life laid down by the modern artificial process of living, instituted forsooth by civilization, mental disturbances frequently arise through the brain becoming abused in various ways, from overwork and alcohol principally.

Your octopuslike brain cell is a living little thing, and it can endure a great deal of abuse from you, but if you should go a little too far it rebels and refuses to work any longer by breaking contact with its companion cells, which it can do by withdrawing its long arm and getting itself out of circuit. But this rebellion is conducted by whole groups of cells acting together in full harmony.

Now, the object of this "strike" is simply to avoid overwork, for each tiny cell has stored within its minute space only a certain amount of energy, but if you put on the high pressure this is easily consumed by the operation of the brain, and the organism breaks down from exhaustion. Now, take the first of the problems just stated. When a person takes too much to drink, the cells in those patches of the brain that are responsible for the conduct of muscular movement become affected and the man staggers.

When the dose is very large, the cells, which, although stupefied, have tried to keep their master on his legs, now cease working, and the man sleeps like one dead. Finally, if more than enough of alcoholic drink be taken, the effect on the cells is to paralyze them, and the unfortunate man dies.

There is some relation between extraordinary activity of the mind and insanity. Geniuses are apt to exhibit symptoms of mental alienation, and, singular to relate, their children are usually inferior to those of average men.

For instance, not to go out of England for example, Cromwell was a hypochondriac and had visions, Dean Swift inherited insanity and was himself not a little mad. Shelley was called by his friends "Mad Shelley," Charles Lamb went crazy, Coleridge was another hypochondriac, Johnson was a morbid maniac. Milton was of a morbid turn of mind, nearly approaching insanity (modern ideas of madness are largely formed on the description evolved by his diseased imagination), and Byron said he was visited by ghosts.

This mental alienation occurring in the foregoing cases shows that certain specific groups of brain cells have come under the baneful influence of the guiding spirit called talent or genius, which has used up all the energy stored in each cell and each group of cells, to the detriment of the whole, with the result that their ceasing work has brought about various types of insanity as depicted or, to phrase it more softly, induced disturbance of the mental equilibrium.

The remaining problem is absentmindedness. This is produced by a temporary disjunction of certain groups of cells. A man becomes so absorbed in his study of some particular subject and lends his whole mind to thought that the hard thinking disorganizes the groups of cells employed in the process of reflection, their tentacles being turned all one way, to the detriment of mental action generally, and so the man with the tentacles of his brain cells turned in the one direction passes along the streets lost to all observation or mental perception and does all manner of queer things because he is not conscious of what he is doing.—Kansas City Star.

His "Dear Old Jim."

"Corbett is my friend and benefactor," says Mr. Jeffries. "I was once his sparring partner, and he treated me as a gentleman. Hence I have gladly agreed to fight him as a return for favors. I am bound by all the ties of friendship and gratitude to give him a chance to fight me." Was there ever such a touching instance of devotion? Mr. Jeffries will reward his old patron and benefactor by beating him into pulp and knocking his head off. One can fancy him saying, as he puts his terrible right into his friend's ribs, "Dear old Jim!"—Kansas City Star.

The Billing and Cooling.

Uncle George—You do not appear to think it necessary to spend so much time at home as you did when you were first married. I suppose the billing and cooling are all over now.

Harry—There doesn't seem to be much of a let up in the billing, and, as for the cooling, I am dreadfully afraid of it. It is sure to mean a new hat or a new gown or a new something.—Boston Transcript.

Each average human being has about 15,000 square feet of skin to look after and nearly 3,000,000 oil and sweat glands. The outer layer of skin is constantly wearing off and must be constantly removed to allow the new skin beneath to show fresh, white and beautiful.

EASY LIFE IN NICARAGUA.

When the Family Is Broke, the Wife Digs a Little Gold.

"When I was in the Olancha district, in Nicaragua," said a visitor who is largely interested in mining in Central America. "I had an opportunity of seeing how the lazy natives tap nature's till when they need some small change."

"Near our camp by the river was a hut occupied by a typical Honduran family, consisting of husband and wife, grandfather and grandmother and a dozen or so of assorted children. The only one of the crowd who did anything except rest and smoke was the wife. At intervals of perhaps a week she would sally out with the family tinpan, erstwhile used for cooking, and proceed to an old placer digging on the river bank. There she would squat, throw a few handfuls of dirt into the pan, fill it with water and begin the usual circular motion of gold washing."

"She was very skillful and would keep a little sheet of dirty water spraying over the edge like a miniature cataract. When the water was exhausted, a few spoonfuls of sand would be left in the bottom of the pan, and, spreading it out thin with a bit of stick, she would go over it grain by grain, looking for 'color.' Whenever she saw a speck of gold she moistened the stick on her tongue and picked up the particle by adhesion. Each bit of the precious metal was stored away in a quill, plugged with clay at the ends, and I have known her to take out as much as a quarter of an ounce in the course of one day."

"Usually her limit was about $2, and when she got that she stopped. Then the head of the house would arise languidly and start for the nearest store, 12 miles away. Sometimes he would trade the whole amount for whiskey; but, as a rule, he brought back tobacco, salt, meal or calico."

"There are hundreds of native families who live in exactly that manner in Olancha. Sometimes the woman will be lucky enough to strike a rich pocket that will yield a dollar or more a pan, but they never dream of washing it out at once and getting a stake. It simply means that they can secure their usual amount with less work."

New Orleans Times-Democrat.

NO "PROPERTY" ESCAPES.

Some Queer Things to Be Seen in a Chinese Theater.

Over the audience rests a settled, immovable stillness, unbroken even by a sigh. No expression referable to sorrow, sympathy, joy or tears lightens the blank, dead wall of the faces. The Chinaman is impregnable. Only once do his eyes change, and that is while the property man is on the stage, and he is never off it.

The Chinese property man sees his duty to the management and puts it into practical effect. No "property" shall escape him. He gathers all things by the way. When the Chinese Romeo slays Tybalt, the property man steps on to the stage, gathers up Tybalt's sword, cap and cloak and things and walks off with them. He would enter Macbeth's banquet hall while that weak kneed monarch was exercising Banquo's ghost, gather up the goblets and plates in one arm and Macbeth's chair with the other and carry them away. He would pluck the roses from Elaine's breast; he would take the dagger from Juliet's dead hand; he would interrupt Hamlet's soliloquy in the churchyard with a request for Yorick's skull, and he would interpose in the murder of Desdemona to remove the pillows from her bed.—Sagui Smith in Leslie's Weekly.

London's Great Clock.

Whatever complaints may be made against the tone of Big Ben, the famous London clock—and musicians say it is a terribly bad "B," at any rate—every one will acknowledge that the clock in the house of commons tower is a wonderful timekeeper, not varying a second in time all the year through. The mechanism for setting in motion the massive hammer which brings out the tone of Big Ben's 10-ton bell is very interesting. The striking machinery is driven by weights of about a ton and a half, which hang on a shaft 17½ feet deep, and it is so arranged that after the chimes are over the hammer falls on the big bell within one second of Greenwich mean time.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1900.

THE UNIVERSITY

The University year closed on Thursday evening, and the next morning, June 1, 1900, witnessed the departure of the student body of under graduates to their homes to spend a pleasant vacation and gather physical and mental strength for work another year. Those who have graduated will enter a new field where they can apply to useful pursuits the knowledge they have acquired at school. They will become practical in a larger sense than they could become at school, as a higher and broader plane of action in the future will provide a field for useful work by willing heads and hands.

The University year just closed has been one of the most successful years the University has known. The President and faculty have done all that could be accomplished to make it a success in all of its departments.

The JOURNAL planted its battery in the early part of the current year in a way that brought the defenses of the University in range of a few well intended discharges that caused a shaking up of some of the outlines of their abutments, but no bad effect from the cause is observable. The morale of the University has not suffered in the least, and the mental and physical superstructure of the institution has continued to act in harmony with natural law.

President Stubbs was given a bayonet thrust by the writer, which he claimed was received in his back. The justice of the criticism was admitted, and further hostilities were closed till the Doctor could turn around. The President was not in a hurry when making the turn, and being charged of fighting under cover, which the writer at the time believed to be true, a remainder was received by the Doctor that no one was injured. A truce was arranged and the war was closed. When the controversy had assumed a personal nature good sense prevailed, and it is just to the Doctor to say that whatever there was of a personal character of which he was accused by the JOURNAL, had its origin in a mistake, and he is not chargeable with any discourtesy.

The press is not called on to arrange the private differences of individuals. It should have nothing to do with them unless the public is in some manner affected. When the public in any way becomes involved in private matters they take a public relation that justifies criticism and may demand it for the public good. Differences in opinion will arise in these matters which are largely influenced by circumstances that operate upon individuals and parties, and discussions follow that are not always temperate as the winds should be to the new shorn lamb, but as a rule no harm comes from criticism in public matters. Since the criticisms made by the JOURNAL last winter upon the action of the Regents and President of the University care has been taken to ascertain, as much as it was possible to do so without the knowledge of the President or of the faculty of the University, how the institution was conducted in its educational and general business work, which the JOURNAL takes pleasure in saying is all that could be expected or desired from those whose work and management is involved.

President Stubbs is a hard worker and is in earnest in all he does, which induces energy in the future educational direction of the school and its continued improvement. The JOURNAL changed its base last winter to its other foot, where it remained until it became satisfied that public duty required a return of its shoe to the foot it was taken from, where it now is and will continue to be until there is cause for a change, which it will make should there be cause to do so.

The University, its President and faculty will receive the support of the JOURNAL in the future.

WHERE ARE THE BOERS?

Reports indicate that the close of the Boer war is not distant. It may be in a few days, but some desultory fighting in the future, but all indications are that organized resistance will not again be made. The theory of the war has been from the beginning that the chief effort in the war would be made in resistance at Pretoria, the Transvaal capital, which theory seems to have been abandoned by the Boers, as reports are to the effect that no resistance will be made at the capital.

The chief question there is up for solution at this time appears to be the present whereabouts of the Boer forces.

There have been no military stores or arms captured by the British, and it is well known the Boers have a large supply of each remaining. It may be the Boers are playing possum, pretending they are dead, when they are not materially injured, waiting for an opportunity to make a surprise when it is least expected. They are in a country they know all about, whose hills and valleys will furnish protection to them in their mode of warfare and give strength to their cause and arms, that may surprise their powerful enemy, whose fifty mile front will not be a source of power when woods and hills are to be overcome in a rough country.

There is some scheme that has not been developed, or somebody would know something about the future intentions of Paul Kruger and those who have been and are praying with him.

Closing of the University

The University has closed its doors for the summer vacation, and Reno will notice the change in affairs from the start. Being a University town she naturally depends upon the student body for many items of interest. The moment school is over with a sort of comatose condition seems to envelop our town, and throughout the whole summer Reno's populace will miss the tramp of many feet on the board sidewalks leading to and from the Varsity buildings. No chorus of strong, young voices will float out on the still night air in college songs and popular melodies, there will be a lack of out-door sports, such as field exercises, basketball games and baseball meets to attract us to the deserted buildings on the hill.

We will miss you sorely, students, and our welcome will be hearty when the early September days witness your return to alma mater. Until then, good luck and best wishes to one and all of you.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

CARSON, Nev., May 29.

The weather conditions of the past week were very favorable and crops of all kinds made rapid growth. According to reports of correspondents the grain and alfalfa crops are in a very forward stage of advancement and look unusually promising, while the meadows and ranges are in excellent condition throughout the State. Corn, potatoes and garden truck look well and are growing nicely. Cattle, horses and sheep are improving rapidly, the range feed being fine and abundant in all districts.

Indications are favorable for a fair crop of apples and plenty of honey.

Mrs. Ruhe's Death.

Thursday morning, at her residence on West street, Mrs. Henry Ruhe was released by death from a long and painful illness.

Mrs. Ruhe has lived in Reno for many years and leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss. Sixty-two years had passed over Mrs. Ruhe's head, and her constitution had been weakened by a series of sick spells, so she had small chances of recovery when stricken down by this last illness.

The funeral will be conducted by the Order of the Eastern Star, to which society Mrs. Ruhe belonged. The time of the funeral is set for Sunday at 2 o'clock.

Mines at De Lamar.

De Lamar is not dead. The mines at this Nevada camp are all good. The De Lamar and April Fool mines are about the best properties there. Recent assays of ore from the latter mine went as high as $50 in gold and 200 ounces of silver to the ton. This pay rock is found in large streaks.

Cyanide leeching tanks are connected with the April Fool mine, there being eight of them, and the tailings from the Gates crusher are sluiced to these tanks and leached.

Many other mines are producing good ore, and De Lamar is one of the most promising camps in the State.

"Olivette" to be Played in Virginia

The University opera troupe leave for Virginia City Saturday morning, where they are to produce "Olivette," the comic opera, before a Cosmopolitan audience. There is no doubt about the reception they will get, because the fame of this extraordinary amateur performance has reached Virginia people, and they are anxious to witness the musical treat.

Notice, C. E. S.

Officers and members of Adah Chapter No. 122, O. E. S., are requested to meet at Masonic hall, Sunday at 2 P. M., to attend the funeral of their late sister, Anna Ruhe. By order of the W. M. 2312 N. N. HARRIS, Secretary.

THE CHINESE TROUBLE BECOMING SERIOUS

Fourteen Thousand Russian Troops Are Held in Readiness for Action at Port Arthur.

Special to the JOURNAL.

VIENNA, June 2.—The great powers are exchanging dispatches relative to China. The superiority of Russia's representation at Taku is regarded as significant. A triple alliance advocates united action by Europe to protect common interests.

Twenty-three war ships are now at Taku; nine Russian, three British, three German, three French, two American, two Japanese and one Italian. In addition to their crews the Russians have on board their war ships 17,000 troops from Port Arthur with field equipment. Fourteen thousand Russian troops are held in readiness at Port Arthur.

A Jealous Husband Murders His Wife

Special to the JOURNAL.

PORTLAND, June 1.—Mrs. Noonie Moss, better known as Miss Noonie Clute, wife of Riley M. Moss, was shot through the heart and killed near Willamette Heights Park between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. Suspicion rests upon the woman's husband, and jealousy is believed to have been the motive. The officers are seeking Moss, but the search thus far has been in vain. Mrs. Moss was the daughter of Charles Clute, well known in Portland, where he has lived for several years.

Conflicting Reports from the Seat of War

Special to the JOURNAL.

LONDON, June 1.—The war situation, so far as it applies to Pretoria, is still in doubt. There are rumors that the city has fallen before the advance of Roberts' army, and there are conflicting reports that the British General has met with repulse. Nothing is positively known of the exact situation and the war office is anxiously watched.

BRIEF WIRED WORDS.

MENTION.

Gossip About the Migrating Public as They Come and Go.

A. M. Smith leaves for Red Rock, Cal., to-day.

"Tule" Frank Dickinson is in town on business.

W. O. Hart and wife are in from Johnsville, Cal.

Miss Edith McLean of Beckwith is visiting Reno friends.

U. R. Whitaker was a passenger from Sierra valley yesterday.

Mrs. E. E. Oline boarded the east-bound flyer last evening.

Dr. J. D. Campbell of Pioche is registered at the Riverside.

W. J. Luke goes north this morning to accept a position in J. M. Fulton's mine.

Mrs. Culp, accompanied by Miss Hester, returned to Carson on Friday's local.

Miss Claire Dickinson came in yesterday from her father's ranch at Red Rock.

O. Woodman and wife of Yarmouth, Maine, are spending some weeks in Nevada.

Lord Talbot, the old war-horse hat dealer, is at the Riverside plying his customary trade.

Surveyor-General Kelley, wife and daughter were south-bound passengers Friday morning.

Key Richard has secured employment at Truckee. He leaves for the mountain city this morning.

To the North of Us.

Mr. Frank Dickinson, better known as "Tule" Frank, has a good word for his section of the country. He informed us that Henry Butters sent a mining expert to the big East Chance mine in Plumas county to pass an opinion on the quality of ore found in this property. Those connected with the East Chance mine are Henry Butters, John Sparks and Mr. Dickinson.

The report handed in by the expert is gratifying. Specimens of the rock were tested with good results. A large vein of high grade ore was discovered, and work, with lots of capital back of it, will soon develop the resources of this Plumas county mine.

Throughout Long Valley, Sierra and East Chance the growing crops are in excellent condition, in consequence thereof, farmers are happy.

We like to hear accounts of our prosperous neighbors.

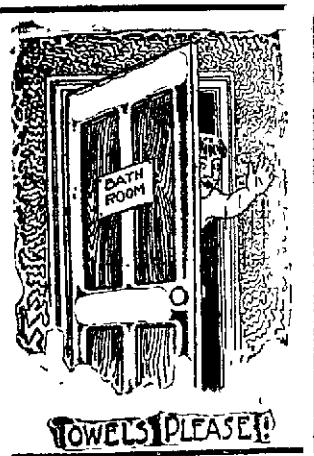

Choice Nevada Helpers.

The JOURNAL finds the following in the Denver Stockman:

"We will have on sale Wednesday morning 800 head of choice 2-year-old heifers, out of the famous John Sparks herd near Reno, Nevada. They are the best-bred lot that have ever come from the west."

Building Notes.

Hammer and saw are being diligently wielded by carpenters in Reno. On every other street a new residence is in course of erection, with contracts or plans for others in contemplation. Reno is the ideal home-city for Nevada's progressive inhabitants.

HELLO GIRL AT CENTRAL

She Has to Contend With People of Every Known
Temperament.

There is a telephone in your house and you wish to talk to some distant friend. One ring brings a response from central, and she asks for "number?" The right number is given, and in less than no time you are conversing with some one perhaps a block away; maybe one or two hundred miles distant.

Simple, isn't it? All wonderful inventions appear so easy after the experimental stages are over with.

But the "Hello" girl. It is her little task which we wish to look into. All day long she sits before the stand or rack of wires, numbers and complicated switches. Bells ring continually. Here comes a call for Red, 222. This means wire, number 22, two bells. Connections are made with wire 22, section red; two bells are sounded and the parties at either end of the wire may proceed with their conversation as conveniently as if sitting opposite each other in the same room.

The "Hello" girl has to put up with people of every temperament. She, herself, is supposed to be entirely devoid of nerves. Should a dozen calls be registered within one minute, some delay may occur. Those delayed "Hrs" up, and central is severely scored; the most provoking element is the one which refuses to read the telephone directory, and torments central with volleys of questions.

Yes, the life of the "Hello" girl contains its share of thorns, yet there are recreations, and episodes happening that cause a deal of merriment. Don't be too rash in talking to a telephone. It isn't as confidential as whispering directly in your friend's ear. Sometimes, we can't say for sure when, a few extracts of phone confabs may be reproduced for public enjoyment. It will serve as a warning to others who are prone to be indiscreet.

Stabbed With a Fork.

At a late hour last night two specimens of foebelated humanity got tangled up in a wordy dispute. Their tongues were of a different mould, one being low Dutch the other Hibernian, and the misunderstanding grew apace. Finally a rough and tumble wrestling match was indulged in and the men rolled about the sawdust in Frissh's beer hall. Charley Post, the Dutchman, grabbed a dining fork and viciously prodded his antagonist in the left side with the three pronged weapon. A nasty wound was made, which terminated the wrangle. Post skipped out, but the officers were on his track when last seen this morning. The injured man gave his name as Billy Martin.

They are Off.

Four large buses will convey the "Olivette" troupe over Geiger grade to Virginia this morning. A misunderstanding between the powers that would be and the management of the opera company caused more hard feelings to spring up amongst students and the "other party." Comstockers will not be doomed to disappointment, as this side issue of spite work can in no way prevent the whole troupe, barring one or two members, from carrying out their original scheme.

Will peace ever reign in undisputed away on the hill again? We hope so.

Bills Coming In.

Those to whom the county is indebted are not slow in presenting their bills. Deputy Clerk Fogg reports a perfect deluge of small bills, medium sized bills, and great big bills coming in fast and furious. The end of every month is a busy time for county officials.

A Visit to the New Brick Yard

It doesn't look very big at first glance, but as the old saying goes "little, but oh my!" This plant is situated near the new experiment station just on the eastern border of Reno. A small board shed shelters the entire works, which consist of a stationary engine of 25 horse power, a machine that resembles nothing so much as a sausage machine built on a large scale. The pressed brick process is simple, and the Reno institution is still in the experimental stage, but promises to be a financial success.

Seven or eight men are given employment here now, and more will be put to work when things are trimmed down to a smoother running order. It is claimed that bricks can be turned out of this machine 50 per cent faster than from the old horse-power press, and the quality of the product is much better.

As the dirt or clay is shoveled into an opening on the upper side of the "presser," it is carried into a narrow apartment by means of a revolving screw shaft. The apartment is the width of two bricks measured on their narrower side, and the same dimension in height as an ordinary brick; a sharp knife severs the compact mass of clay as it is forced through this chamber, cleaving it into the required dimension except as to length. The long cubes of clay are pushed over cloth-covered rollers and a man cuts them into the correct length by a moveable cut-off fitted up with small wires. Four bricks are turned out at a single move of this cut-off.

Bricks are not being moulded for marketable purposes now, but in a few days the pressed brick plant of Reno will be one of our busiest industries.

Attention, Odd Fellows.

A joint special meeting of Truckee Lodge No. 14 and Reno Lodge No. 19, I. O. O. F., will be held at the Investment hall Saturday evening, June 2d, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving the Grand Master. Sojourning Odd Fellows cordially invited. Entrance to hall on Sierra street. By order of the Noble Grand.

Giddy Gaieties.

The tenderloin district celebrated last night. Limes squeezed and roared, whiskey flowed and harlots frisked wildly about with men of low degree. The constables were kept on the qui vive, but arrested no one but Shorty, the bootblack, and a drunken squaw.
